Clapham Junction development seems to be retrospective, any work that is done merely raises the level of facilities and access to the current demands with no anticipation of future growth. I bought my flat in 1990 (Beauchamp Road) and have seen the growth in the Clapham Junction.

ACCESS

If there was ever a need to evacuate the station the underpass would be dangerous, and people would not get through the limited turnstiles safely. In rush hour, when people are calm, it is slow to exit. It is the able bodied people who manage best; people with luggage, children or disabilities can find it stressful at any time of day.

LIFTS

It is negligent that Clapham Junction has no lifts - for wheelchair uses, travellers with suitcases, prams as well as commuters. This fact makes me furious, and the lack of accountability is unacceptable.

SURROUNDING BUILDINGS

Should be no higher the 6 storeys, preferably 4. Tall buildings block out sun and create wind tunnel effect which is something to be avoided.

I look forward to a project that will accommodate the growth for a period beyond the completion of the work, not the bare minimum
